My Brothers,

The "Ideal" Reunion is now a pleasant memory. What a wonderful time we all had. The fellowship, food and fun was in abundance. The one hundred and twenty candidates were simply magnificent. It was one of the best reunions that I ever experienced.

The class was a tribute to those of our Valley who worked so hard to promote Scottish Rite Masonry in the Valley of New Bern. Our Ambassadors and our Scottish Rite clubs went all out in contacting eligible Masons. Never have I seen more interest and activity by our brothers.

A special thanks goes out to the ladies who accompanied their candidate husbands for the three days. They were a delightful addition to our panorama of Masonic festivities. The group of ladies was much larger than the previous one which is great. Ladies, we do appreciate your sharing with us those three days. Our reunion was much brighter and enjoyable because of your participation. Our hope is that you will tell some of your friends whose husband is not a Scottish Rite what awaits for them in New Bern. Thank you for coming.

My Brothers, even though our "Ideal" Reunion was an outstanding success, yet it is over - history. Now is the time to prepare for the next one. "The Reunion of Light" will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 1, 2 and 3. We need now to begin to secure candidates. Light in Masonry is what we have been seeking since our initiation into the Blue Lodge. Scottish Rite offers the ultimate in that search. It opens up an area beyond the threshold of the three degrees. Brothers, again our Blue Lodges are busy. We need those newly raised Masons and they need Scottish Rite.

The ladies are an important part of our reunions. Tell them about the Valley of New Bern and its program for the Wives of the Candidates.

If you did not attend our Maundy Thursday and Easter morning service, you missed an inspirational experience. Brother Marvin Waters, 32°, as speaker was superb and Brother Jerry Stapleford, 32°, K.C.C.H., and his degree team were so impressive in both services.

Again we are counting on all of you for a large Fall class.

Fraternally,

Charlie Potter

EXPERIENCE

We must live through the weary winter,
If we would value spring.
And the woods must be cold and silent,
Before the robins sing.
The flowers must be buried in darkness,
Before they can bud and bloom.
And the sweetest and warmest sunshine,
Comes after the storm and gloom.
So the heart from the hardest trial,
Gains the purest joy of all.
And from the lips that have tasted sadness,
The sweetest songs will fall.
For as peace comes after suffering,
And love is reward of pain,
So, after earth comes heaven,
And out of loss, the gain.

Speaking with the Ladies: After a rather trying day at the office, Charlie was enjoying a restful moment and reading the evening paper. Mrs. Charlie was working on a crossword puzzle and suddenly called out, "Charlie what is a female sheep?"

"Ewe," replied Charlie.....and that's how the fight started.

The hostess was pressing her guests to provide entertainment. "Is there any instrument you can play, Mr. Bennet?"

"Not away from home," he replied.

"What do you play at home?" she inquired.

"Second fiddle," Bennet muttered solemnly.

The young wife was in tears when she opened the door for her husband. "I've been insulted," she sobbed. "Your mother insulted me."

"My mother!" he exclaimed, "But she's a hundred miles away."

"I know, but a letter came for you this morning and I opened it."

He looked rather stern. "I see, but where does the insult come in?"

"In the postscript," she answered. "It said: 'Dear Mable , don't forget to give this letter to Harold.' "

The Boy Scouts were in camp. In an inspection, the director found an umbrella neatly rolled inside the bedroll of a small scout. As an umbrella was not listed as a necessary item, the director asked the boy to explain.

"Sir," answered the young man with a weary sigh, "did you ever have a mother?"

After the psychiatrist had examined the child, he turned to the child's mother and said:

"I will see Johnny in a month again. But you madam, also need help. You are far too upset and worried about your child. I suggest that you take these tranquilizers regularly until I see you again.

A month later, the mother brought her child to the psychiatrist.

"How is Johnny?" asked the doctor.

To which the mother replied: "Who cares?"

Speaking in Jest: The lion was stalking through the jungle looking for trouble. He grabbed a passing tiger and asked, "Who is the king of the jungle?"

"You are, O mighty lion," answered the tiger.

The lion then grabbed a bear and asked the same question.

"You, O mightly lion," answered the bear.

Next the beast met an elephant and asked, "Who's the boss of the jungle?" The elephant grabbed him with his trunk, whirled him around and bashed him against a tree, leaving him badly beaten and broken. The lion got up feebly and said, "Just because you don't know the answer is no reason to get so darn rough."

"We're going to have a swell time tonight," the boy friend suggested. "I've got three seats for the theatre."

"Why do we need three seats?" she asked.

"They're for your father, mother and the kid brother," he said.

One of our preachers recently announced that there are 726 different kinds of sin. Now his phone is constantly ringing requesting the list, mostly from people who think they are missing something.

Mary (my wife) claims that the reason I dictate these items to her is so I can use a lot of words that I don't know how to spell. So true...

Something Else

Reynold Davenport

I read a recent article about an old gentleman who was 103 and when asked to what he attributed his long life he said it was from doing what he d----d well pleased. He said he ate what he liked, drank what he wanted; smoked when he wished, told his wife and his boss and the government where to get off, and he went to bed and arose at whatever hours suited him.

Well, now, that is really something. Here is a man who has had far more than his fair share out of life. There are many, many people that would be delighted to be able to eat whatever they wished, or to drink or smoke when it suited them. To be able to sass your wife, or your boss, or the government, is likewise an often longed-for capability. But to be able to do all those things, and then to live more than 103 years in the process — it's just too much to ask.

The old fellow said his wife and his boss have long since departed this life for whatever might await them — I reckon he sassed them to death, but the government is still with us. And I've got news for the old fellow. The government will still be around if he lives for yet another 103 years, and it will undoubtedly have the last sass.

I remember some years ago when an old man at Sneads Ferry was observing his 104th birthday, and a newspaper reporter asked him the inevitable question; "What has caused you to live so long?"

"Clean living," the old man responded, "I never drank, never smoked, and never ran around with women. But you take my brother...He drank whiskey, and he smoked cigarettes, and he ran after women, and he only lived to be ninety-six!" Most men I know would opt for the ninety-six.

Shucks! I remember that as a teenager I had no desire to live beyond forty. What was there for a forty-year-old man to do? I often wondered. Would that I were forty now! I'll lay you big odds I could find something to do.

So, it is all a matter of perspective. The small child regards his mother of thirty as being old, while the lady of sixty sees that thirty-year-old mother as a mere sprout.

Birthdays are occasions that recur all too swiftly as the years pass, and the time comes when you'd just as soon not be reminded of them. My own birthday wages a running battle with Father's Day to see which shall first occur. Sometimes my birthday (June 21) comes around first and sometimes Fathers Day breaks the tape. Once in a while they occur on the same day. In any case, they come so close together that my family observes the two as one — at least, that's what I accuse them of. It is my contention that I receive only about half the coddling and pampering and gifts I am lawfully entitled to in the month of June. They all hotly deny this contention of mine, but I have a lot of fun with it each year.

Reynold S. Davenport, 33°

I have read that in the Far East — in some parts of it, at least — you are considered to be a year old on the day of your birth. That custom, if practiced here, would bring about some real changes. It would mean that you would be eligible to attend school, to vote, to obtain your driver license, to draw Social Security, all of them a year earlier than is presently the case. Most of us, if we look back over our lives, will realize our lives would have been really significantly changed if we had been a year older. Many who missed certain wars would have been drafted and possibly killed. Many who graduated in a year of a poor or a good job market would have found their careers drastically altered had they graduated a year earlier. Who you married, where you live, what you do for recreation, your weight, your happiness, your health — any or all of these might have been changed if you had been a year older. All because of custom.

Now we observe more and more birthdays as medical science finds first one way and then another to ward off diseases and the like, and a great debate goes constantly on as to whether this is good or bad. Some wish to live for as many years as they possibly can, while others have no desire to merely exist, so to speak. I suppose each of us is entitled to an opinion and, like everyone else, I have one. But I doubt if a great many of you would be interested in it, so I'll keep it to myself.

I think I have about worn out the subject of birthdays, so I'll get ready to pester my kinfolk about the one I'll observe (this year) three days ahead of Father's Day.

Men of Faith

Masonry demands that her Craftsmen be men of faith. The tenents of masonry probe our minds to see whether we have that faith or not. It places in our hearts a faith that will prove to be an anchor amidst the storms of life. It is unfortunate that oft times we approach the demands of life with a half-hearted faith. We begin to wonder if there are any real and true answers to the great problems and questions which arise. It is the lack of faith which prevents miracles from happening in our day. Like the potential of electricity, the powers of masonry remain inactive until they strike some responsive conductor in our life.

Faith is needed in all the relationships of life if they are to be effective. In order to be a society of friends and brothers in masonry, we must maintain faith in the other person. One must have faith in the traffic of business. One does not do business with another whose integrity is doubted. One does not normally engage the services of a physician unless one has faith in that man's ability to practice the healing art. Without faith there can be no meeting of spirit with spirit.

The very same principle holds true in masonic faith. It is essential that a continuous and vital contact be made and maintained with the Great Architect of the Universe. It is through this contact that His power and designs become effective in the workings of the true and faithful craftsman. No one can fully know the blessings which have failed to come to us because of a lack of faith. We have missed many great associations with others simply because we have not been able to develop faith in others. This is true among the nations as well as individuals. We see it evident on every hand! Suspicion has taken the place of trust; emotion has often replaced reason; and, men are following loud leaders who lack any real depth in living.

A man must be honest with himself. He must not pretend to have faith which he does not really possess. I suppose there is a big lump of skepticism in the minds of many of us as we look out over a confused and weary world - a world which is deeply troubled. This skepticism sends an icy chill over the ambitions and noble aspirations of many a man! Yet, it is also true that there is in each among us in the craft a tiny germ of faith. I am stressing the fact that this germ can flourish and grow under the teachings and practice of masonry. The God who gave us those aspirations will also give us the strength to accomplish the work set forth for him to do in this life. The Great Architect not only provides the designs and pattern for the building of the Temple; He not only makes provision of the materials; He also enables a man to present his life as a living stone in the Temple of God. The designs demand nothing but that the means of accomplishment are provided. No quality of life is demanded which is unattainable or impossible. We often tend to forget that the Great Architect who sets forth the designs of life is also willing and waiting to create that life. He sets forth the designs for our life and then assures us that strength shall be given every man commensurate to the task which is set before him. We do not always find it easy to trust in these days! It may be that our confidence in man has chilled our confidence in the "things not seen, eternal in the heavens."

Masonry makes us aware of Divine powers and of a supernatural world which is waiting to open its gifts to us. If we have no faith in that kind of world, we have no real faith for living in this world! Masonry asks much of those who subscribe to her tenets. Every good fellowship makes its demands. We cannot keep company with great minds and hearts without getting rid of meanness, selfishness, and all triviality of thought. To be a true mason means to follow the signs. It means letting go of small purposes and giving ourselves completely to the designs set forth by the Great Architect. The message that all of us should learn and live is this: There is an anchor which can hold us secure amidst the storms of life as well as the calms.

We often try by our own strength to reach a level of living in which we feel worthy of the fellowship we enjoy. When we fail - as fail we often do - we often give up in despair and become satisfied with less than our best. The Great Architect asks that we should begin to build just where we are. The lowest point of our need is the place where He waits to meet with us. May it be your joy supreme to hear from Him who reigns supreme: "Well done good and faithful servant. Enter into the joys of the Lord."

SO MOTE IT BE.

OUR LADIES GO ON TOUR

Notes to the Editor

Dear Brother Potter:

Words can't express how much I appreciate you making it possible for me to be with my husband while being initiated into the Scottish Rite.

I had such a wonderful time meeting new Sisters and friends. I'm sure every wife felt welcomed by all.

The tours were very nice and enjoyable. The food was delicious and the brothers and sisters who prepared and served had beautiful smiles on their faces.

Thank you again for three wonderful days.

Love,
Marjorie Bauman

Dear Mr. Potter,

"Thanks" is a small word, but the only one I know to express my appreciation for the three days of travel and hospitality provided for the wives of candidates of the Scottish Rite.

When the original plans were made, it seemed like we would lose three days, but instead we were both beautifully occupied.

Thanks from Dick and I.

Sincerely,
Ruth Rohm

Mr. Potter,

Thank you certainly isn't enough for the wonderful time I had in New Bern for three days. The program for the ladies was great. It has been a long time since I had such a good time and met so many nice people.

Thanks once again for the many courtesies, great food and a wonderful time.

Gratefully,
Alice Kern,
Swansboro, NC

Dear Mr. Potter,

May I take this opportunity to thank you for all of the planning and hard work that went into the tours for the wives of the candidates.

We all, indeed, felt like royalty. The tour guides were all more than kind and Mr. Haddock is a jewel.

I know that I speak for all the wives in attendance, thank you for everything.

Dear Mr. Potter,

I wish to thank you for designing such a wonderful weekend for the ladies. Please thank all the ladies of the O.E.S. for their time and energy spent in fixing and serving our meals. Again thank you for a weekend I'll always cherish.

Pat Sanders

My dear Mr. Potter,

A special "thanks" to you for inviting all the ladies to your "Ideal Reunion". Without your foresight and thoughtfulness for our feelings, I'm sure none of this would have happened. All the ladies have a special place in their hearts for you. Bless you, and continued success.

Sincerely,
Jan Sonnenberg

Dear Mr. Potter,

I want to apologize to everyone for not thanking you before now. I know it has been over a year since my husband passed away. I received so much mail and still get some. I couldn't think of a more important way to include each and everyone than through "The Bagpipe". I want to thank each Masonic brother that took part and was present in the beautiful Masonic Rites for my beloved husband David Woodrow Owens.

I had several to tell me if there was such a thing as a beautiful funeral, that David's was it.

That made me feel proud of each of you, and I wanted to express my love for each of you. I feel like you are my Brethren also. David told me many times how much he loved all of you. I felt that at the services he was smiling down at us and was very pleased.

Thanks to all for the flowers, money, food, love, calls and all the memorial gifts sent to each of the institutions in David's memory. I know they were made out of love for him, and that makes me feel much better.

Thank you for the nice memorial write-up about David in "The Bagpipe". You have been wonderful to him during his life time and I love each of you for that.

Thank you for sending "The Bagpipe" to me. I enjoy reading it.

God bless each and every one of you, now and forever more.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. David (Marie) Owens

"Let me do my thing."

These words from a generation ago had a different meaning than that about which I wish to write. When spoken by a disgruntled individual, the words usually meant that the person saying them wanted no advice or instructions from anyone; but rather wanted to do whatever happened to interest them at a given moment.

The mason would see this attitude as one of selfish indulgence, coming from a person who had no thought or feelings for anyone other than self. The mason would label this attitude as alien to masonic teaching and detrimental to the great good for the human family that we seek to instill in the hearts and lives of all those who knock at our doors.

While we dismiss the attitudes as being unworthy of imitation that come from this statement, we yet learn from them a great lesson of toleration that Masonry would teach us. "Let me do my thing" are words that indicate to us that we cannot determine for another what that person ought to be about in response to the diety. We cannot determine the exact response that another ought to make in his devotions to deity. No, we would call upon all to respond to the diety with the doctrinal affirmation that is particular to his personal faith. But we would part company with those who demand that no faith is to be preferred over expressions of faith.

We believe and teach that we are the children of one Creator God. We believe and teach that there is one God in all of creation that loves His children and wishes for them the best that He can give and seeks to give even a portion of Himself to each and every one of His children on the earth. We believe that the proper response of the creature to the creator is one of reverential awe. But to apply specific methods and manner of that response in reverential awe is not the provience of masonry. We are tolerant of each man's doctrinal affirmations. We accept all names for diety. We respect each persons response to the diety. We expect only the simple affirmation of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of humanity. We are tolerant of each man's application of this simple affirmation in his particular response to the diety.

In the pursuit of a tolerant humanity, we should remind ourselves that none of us are wise enough, none of us have studied enough, not one of us has been fortunate enough, to have acquired and possess all of the truth that there is. There is enough truth about the diety in each man's religion to encourage us to continue our own pursuits for greater wisdom and to respect those other beliefs and encourage the development of them. Even if all truth were incorporated into one religious expression, none of us are wise enough to comprehend it all. It behoves us, therefore, to be tolerant of the religious expressions of others and encourage them to be tolerant of ours.

Masonry would take all men who believe in the diety by the hand and lead them together into the temple of fraternity. There, in mutual respect, we contemplate the blessings and mercies of the diety and learn from fellowship shared a mutual respect one for another. We experience first hand on the floor of equality the beauty of each others soul and the concern of each others heart. We share in a common commitment to the diety and a common endeavor to deliver His will to the world. We share in a common commitment to serve humanity in response to the diety. We experience the same wisdom of the ages and learn from the same revelations from the diety. As we share, we respect. As we respect, we love. As we love, we serve. As we serve, we worship the diety who has called us together.

"Let me do my thing" reminds us of our tolerance that we exercise one toward another. It also reminds us that in our tolerance we are still all working to do the work of Him who called us and allows us in this fraternity. Here on earth, the work of the diety belongs to all of God's children; no matter what name the children call the Creator.

Edens, Jr., 32°, K.C.C.H. offered the invocation followed by a Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of our country. A delicious meal was prepared and served by members of Spring Lake Chapter No. 333, O.E.S.

Brother James Hay, 32°, K.C.C.H., Master of Fort Bragg Lodge welcomed the Ladies, guests and members to the festivities and hoped they had enjoyed the sumptuous dinner and would appreciate the excellent speaker's remarks.

Brother Hay introduced the Temple Ambassadors and the many guests in assemblage including the Secretary, New Bern Scottish Rite Bodies, Brother Charlie T. Potter, 33°. He was asked to give those assembled a few words of wisdom which he did very eloquently - discussing the Wives Program and the Aphasia and Dyslexia Programs in two local Universities, East Carolina and Appalachian State.

Officers of the Cumberland County Scottish Rite Club were introduced and Brother Edens introduced members of the 20th Degree Team.

The Master of Ceremonies recognized candidates for the coming "Ideal Scottish Rite Reunion." He presented the Worthy Matron, Sister Sharon Hanna, Spring Lake Chapter and thanked her and her Chapter members for the delightful dinner they had prepared and served.

The District Deputy Grand Master, 29th Masonic District, Brother Louis O. Dean, Jr. was recognized. He expressed his appreciation on being invited and recognized. He conveyed his gratitude to the members of the Eastern Star Chapter for the tasteful meal.

Brother Hay introduced the speaker of the evening, a Free Will Baptist preacher, who is very active in civic activities in New Bern - Brother & Rev. Marvin R. Waters. Those present were treated to a most interesting and informative talk. Everyone seemingly enjoyed his presentation. Hopefully, he will return to speak to this group again.

Brother Hay thanked him for such a treat and offered his appreciation for those present.

There being no further business to come before the meeting, Brother Edens delivered the benediction and the meeting was adjourned.

Scottish Rite And Aphasia/Dyslexia

The Scottish Rite Bodies in the Orient of North Carolina have been supporting programs at Appalachian State University and at East Carolina University for the detection and treatment of Aphasia/-Dyslexia since 1973. This is a program that primarily benefits children with learning disabilities.

Since its inception in 1973, the program has grown from an intitial funding of $15,000 to an annual funding of $100,000. This is money contirbuted by Scottish Rite Masons through the North Carolina Scottish Rite Masonic Foundation. Your contributions to this cause is an important part of this program.

In its infancy the program with very limited funds could effectively serve only a small area but with a steady growth it now is serving approximately seventeen counties in Eastern North Carolina and is equally effective in the western part of the state.

As a result of increased funding the following graduate students are now involved at East Carolina University: Tonja Atwater, Chapel Hill; Jackie Bunn, Tarboro; Tammy Dupree, Angier; Tracy Furr, Burlington; Roxanne Harrell, Burgaw; Nancy Lotowycz, Greenville; Karen Mann, Whiteville; and Karen Kent, Tarboro.

In the past two years the following graduate students have participated in the program and have gone out from East Carolina University alone fully trained to carry this treatment into the public schools of our state:

Roseann Turner, Moore County Hospital, Lumberton; Kathy Carroll, School system, Anderson; Kady Griffin, Pitt County Schools, Greenville; Renee Augustine, DEC, New Bern; Renay Painter, Eastern Associates Speech & Language Services, Goldsboro; Cynthia Roberts, Eastern Associates Speech & Language Services, Goldsboro; Mary Margaret Keith, Kinston City Schools, Kinston; Barbara Bremer, UCP Center, REAP, Greenville; Cindy Cobb, Pitt County Schools, Greenville; Ruth Taylor, Greenville City Schools, Greenville; Jeanne Smith, Roanoke Rapids; Susan Wahl, Caswell Center, Kinston; Donna Nipple, Caswell Center, Kinston; Mary Dawn Cobb, Howell's Child Care Center, LaGrange; Anne Gschwind, Lenoir County, Kinston; Ellen Maddry, DEC, Raleigh; Marian Player, Center for Communication Disorders, Raleigh; Jeff Lawery, National Speech & Hearing Services, Greenville; Opal Amos, Roanoke-Chowan Hospital, Ahoskie; and Lynn Mason, Pitt County Schools, Greenville.

This is only a brief statement about a wonderful philanthropy that reaches into every nook and corner of our state.

We still continue to need your support. Our help is their hope.
